

PANEL DISCUSSION

The age of revolutions and its lasting impacts on South Florida

Free with Registration

Saturday

June 27

2:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Museum of Miami

Register Today →

Revolutions have shaped the modern world—reshaping governments, economies, and cultures far beyond the moments in which they occurred. This panel discussion explores the enduring legacy of revolutionary movements, beginning with the American Revolution and extending to revolutions in the Caribbean, Latin America, and beyond, and how their ideas, conflicts, and migrations continue to influence South Florida today.

Through historical context and contemporary perspectives, panelists will examine how revolutionary ideals such as liberty, citizenship, resistance, and self-determination have shaped Miami’s evolving political, social, and cultural landscape. The conversation will highlight themes of exile, identity, and civic engagement, inviting audiences to consider how global and American revolutionary movements have left lasting marks on our local community.

ASL interpretation will be available during the program.

Featured speakers

Edmund Abaka, Ph.D.

Robin F. Bachin, Ph.D.

Michael J. Bustamante, Ph.D.

Moderator

Ashli White, Ph.D.

Presented in conjunction with the National Archives’ “Freedom Plane National Tour: Documents That Forged a Nation,” in partnership with University of Miami College of Arts & Sciences, and supported in part by The Batchelor Foundation. Enjoy complimentary admission to the Museum and view the exhibition.

101 W Flagler St, Miami, FL 33130
305-375-1492
museumofmiami.org

